Special Presentation on Vision 2020: New York City's Comprehensive Waterfront Plan at November 18th PFAC Meeting

At the next meeting of NYMTC's Program, Finance and Administration Committee, Mary Kimball, New York City Department of City Planning (DCP) project manager for Vision 2020: The New York City Comprehensive Waterfront Plan, will discuss the plan, which is being undertaken by the DCP to enhance the city's waterfront and waterways and set forth a ten-year vision for the waterfront.

The plan recognized the diversity of the waterfront and the importance of balancing the needs of environmentally sensitive natural areas and the working waterfront with opportunities for public access, open space, housing and commercial activity.

The presentation will also include an overview of the nature of comments. The meeting will be held on Thursday, November 18th at 1:15 p.m. in NYMTC's offices at 199 Water Street, 22nd floor, NYC, and will be available by webcast at www.NYMTC.org. For security purposes please RSVP to Andrea Miles-Cole@ 212.383.7200 or amiles-cole@dot.state.ny.us. For more information please visit www.NYMTC.org.

Brown Bag Lunch Presentation: Downtown Alliance's Vision for Water Street, November 17

A New Approach to Water Street in Lower Manhattan: A Street-Level Transformation for Economic Development will be the topic of NYMTC's next Brown Bag lunch, on Wednesday, November 17th at 12 noon in NYMTC's offices at 199 Water Street, 22nd floor, NYC.

The Downtown Alliance's Water Street Study focuses upon the activity and image of Water Street and creates an urban design framework for the economic repositioning of one of the region's largest commercial office districts. Released in June of this year, the study presents an achievable plan to rescale Water Street in order to
